MENIFEE COUNTY SHERIFF SHOT 2ND TIME LAST FRIDAY

Ohio Couple Are Arrested On Dan Ridge After Run

Sheriff John Crain of Menifee County was shot in the right elbow Friday—the second time he has been wounded during a four year term of office which ends in January.

Crain was listed in satisfactory condition at the Good Samaritan Hospital at Lexington following surgery.

State police said a couple answering the description of the sheriff's assailants had surrendered to Trooper Carl Sluss a short time later.

The arrested persons, both from Zanesville, O., were Williamson Fyffe, 26, and Helen Gheen, 26.

Last February, Crain and Delmuth Refitt were seriously wounded in a gun fight when Crain went to Refitt's home to serve a warrant on him. Both were hospitalized for some time.

At Lexington Friday afternoon, Crain gave the following account:

Crain said he was returning to Frenchburg on U. S. 460 after serving a summons when he noticed a car off the side of the road, apparently stalled. He picked up a man and woman after offering to take them to Frenchburg.

On the way to town, the sheriff was told that the stalled car belonged to the man's sister.

"She's not going to like that, is she?" Crain asked.

Crain said the man answered, "No," then took out a 32-caliber revolver, cocked it and pointed the gun at him.

"Don't make a false move," the man ordered.

Crain was forced to turn around and drive away from Frenchburg. He drove for several miles while making up his mind as to a course of action.

At a curve near Mariba, the Sheriff swerved his car first to the left, then to the right, to put the gunman off balance. Then he jumped from the car door and ran for cover behind a parked truck driven by an Ohio man coming to Morgan county for a load of coal.

As Crain was running, the man fired several times. One of the bullets struck Crain in the chest.

The car rolled into a gasoline pump in front of Bryant's Store at the side of the road. (There, bystanders said the gunman barged into the store and forced a truck driver, whose identity was not learned, to help him start the sheriff's auto, in which the pair fled).

Fyffe and the woman were traced out the Dan Ridge road. State Trooper Paul Sluss found a car parked in a lane leading to a cemetery. When he approached, Fyffe came out with his hands up. A moment later other State troopers and Sheriff Aaron Lykins reached the scene. Officers had set up nine road blocks in the vicinity soon after the shooting.

'Tobacco For Polio' Drive Starts In Morgan; More Money Needed

Mrs. H. B. Murray, chairman of the Morgan county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, this week said the chapter is in debt over $2,500 for expenses in caring for polio patients and urges everyone growing tobacco to donate at least one stick of tobacco to the TOBACCO FOR POLIO DRIVE.

The Morgan county chapter already has borrowed $1,200 from the National Foundation and will have to borrow an additional $1,200 in order to provide care for polio patients already under treatment.

Two children from Morgan county were given operations this summer and the local chapter spent $2,500 on these two patients.

Another case of polio developed this year and the child is still in the hospital in Lexington. The bill will probably be $1,500 or more before the child can be released. Thus the chapter will need to borrow more money from the National Foundation.

When Morgan farmers donate tobacco at the warehouse, the county where the market is located gets the benefit. But if a stick is donated in Morgan then the Morgan county chapter gets the proceeds.

Thus it is important that Morgan farmers give their tobacco in the local Tobacco for Polio Drive. The Morgan county chapter needs to raise as much money as it can take care of present patients and be able to take care of any future patients.

Farmers wishing to give tobacco to the polio drive may leave it at Blair Wholesale or Brown's Hardware and Electric in West Liberty and at Harold Ross's store at Ezel.

Homemakers in the county's many Homemakers clubs also are assisting with the program. Several clubs plan to organize drives for tobacco in their areas.

BURLEY WEIGHING HEAVIER THIS YEAR

Morgan county farmers commenced moving their tobacco to warehouses this week. And nearly all of them were agreeably surprised when it was weighed.

Morgan's crop averaged 1,580 pounds per acre last year, the ASC office said. But this year's crop, despite the long drought, is weighing heavier, some crops as much as 25% heavier than last year.

One tobacco man said this week Morgan's crop will average 1,800 pounds an acre this year. Many other farmers now are thinking the same.

Morgan's 1,967 tobacco producing farms harvested a total of 1,777,3 acres this year, the ASC reports. An average of 1,800 pounds an acre will produce a total of 3,199,600 pounds, which is more than last year's total poundage.

Last year's crop sold for more than $63 a hundred average. If the average is $60 this year, Morgan's crop may bring in as much as $1,920,000. This is considerably more than earlier estimates by many growers.

A dry crop is always a heavy crop, one observer said in commenting on the heavy weight turning up on weighbills.

Mrs. McKenzie, 96, Dies After 5-Year Illness

Rinda Jane McKenzie died at the home of her son, Henry McKenzie, in West Liberty Nov. 11 after a five year illness. She was born Nov. 26, 1861, and was the daughter of the late Harvey and Millford Lykins Prater. She was a native of the White Oak section, and was a member of the Baptist church.

In addition to her son Henry, she is survived by two other sons, Mack of Winchester and Chester McKenzie of Paris, Ky.

Funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at Potter Chapel, the Rev. Harlan Murphy officiating. Burial was in the family cemetery on Elkfork, with Potter Funeral Home in charge.

Aunt Jeston Gevedon 'Just Fine' Is Word From Grassy Creek This Week

and doesn't have an ache or a pain. "Oh, I was about to forget," spoke up her daughter, Mrs. Byrd. "She scratched her toe a few days ago and that hurt her a little."

Russell Brown is going to Grassy Creek some time soon to take Aunt Jeston's picture to send to Nick Basso to use on his news telecast. Each year Aunt Jeston's photograph is distributed far and wide, for those persons who have lived on this earth almost 106 years are in a class all to themselves. When she plans to have her picture made, Aunt Jeston gets coy—wants a fresh knitted bedcap, her dark red knitted shawl, and a mirror to primp a little.

She misses her son, Monroe, who was a constant companion until his death last Jan. 29 at the age of 86. J. M. Gevedon for many years was the Courier's correspondent at Grassy Creek and kept readers well informed about his mother. Since his passing not too much has been reported about Morgan county's grand little lady, and we got curious about how she was getting along and called the Gevedon house Wednesday and talked with Mrs. Byrd and Mrs. Dell Gevedon. Aunt Jeston, of course, has been bedfast since a hip injury a few years ago. But her daughter and daughter-in-law informed us that "she is just fine."

That was the word received this week from Grassy Creek, Ky., where Aunt Jeston lives with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Dell Gevedon, and her daughter, Louetta Byrd.

"She has a hearty appetite," commented Mrs. Byrd. "She eats a big breakfast and dinner, but drinks only milk for her supper." Apparently Aunt Jeston's diet agrees with her, for according to the family she is in good health.

In addition to the free gifts mentioned above, the store will serve banana splits all day Saturday at 19c and will give two points of ice cream for the price of one.

DEVILS WIN ONE BUT LOSE NEXT

(By Wallace Cantrell, Jr.)

The Morgan County Blue Devils opened their 57-58 basketball campaign Friday night by defeating the Magoffin Baptist Institute 87-50. The Devils, using a fast break and good ball handling, took a 41-28 half time lead which the MBI team was never able to overcome. The Devils really caught fire in the second half and rolled their final victory.

Darrell Pelfrey dumped in 32 points for the victors with Scotty Elliott collecting 15 and Farrell Pelfrey and Garland Patrick each getting 10.

The Devils were really put to test as to what they can expect this season when they traveled to Ezel Tuesday night to take on the Ezel Rockets. The Devils expected a real battle from Ezel, who always play their best against the Devils.

Darrell Pelfrey dumped in five straight points and the Devils seemed to be on their way to their second victory, but Ezel came back to really pour it on and take a 26-21 half time lead. In the second half Darrell Wheeler, who has been out with flu, was put into the lineup and he collected 13 points, but that was not enough as Ezel marched on to a final score of 61-56 time lead.

The future, however, looks much brighter for the Devil's home opener Friday, Nov. 15 against Wolfe County. Billy Bailey will return to action, having recovered from a broken arm; and Darrell Wheeler is ready for full time duty. The B-team game will start at 6:30 and the varsity game will get underway at 8:00.

236 Served By Club At Pancake Flip Here

The West Liberty Kiwanis club served 236 persons at its Pancake Flip in the basement of the Methodist church last Saturday and made approximately $235 to apply on the purchase of a loud speaking system.

Russell Brown donated $5 to the fund to purchase the loud speaker. James Perry held the lucky number that drew the electric toaster.

2 TOBACCO BARN, HOUSE CONSUMED IN SEPARATE FIRES

Fires of unknown origin have destroyed two tobacco barns and their contents and a tenant house in this region during the past ten days.

A log barn housing tobacco from a six-tenths acre crop and a tenant house on the farm of Billy Prater were in an isolated section near Yocum was destroyed Monday night about midnight.

Ollie Prater discovered the barn and tenant house on his son's farm had been burned when he went to the farm Thursday of last week to gather corn. The barn and house were in an isolated section. Prater suspected arson, and State Police and a State fire marshal from Olive Hill were called to investigate. The fire marshal said he found tracks of two men leading from the abandoned tenant house to the barn. The barn housed tobacco from six-tenths of an acre grown by Ollie Prater. No insurance was carried.

Walter Morgan lost all of his tobacco but 13 sticks which he had stripped. He lost also a cow and some chickens in the blaze at Hickory Grove.

HUNTING SEASON TO OPEN NOV. 20

(A Correction)

Hunting season for small game in Kentucky will open Wednesday of next week, November 20, and not November 15 as The Licking Valley Courier reported last week in printing a news release from the office of the State's District Forester in Morehead.

The District Forester's release was received on Thursday and The Courier carried it on the front page, believing it reliable. However, we have been informed since by officials of the Department of Fish and Wildlife that the season opens Nov. 20. We are glad to correct the error.

According to 1957 hunting regulations issued by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, open season will start Nov. 20 for quail, bobwhite, cottontail, ruffed grouse, rabbit, red fox, raccoon, mink, skunk and muskrat and continue through Jan. 18.

Raccoon and opossum may be taken with dog only from Oct. 21 through Nov. 29.

Regulations require that shotgun be plugged to hold no more than three shells. Daily bag limit for bobwhite is 10, for rabbit 8 and for grouse 2.

FARM-CITY WEEK OBSERVED HERE

The West Liberty Kiwanis Club observed City-Farm Week at its meeting Wednesday evening with a program presented by County Extension Agent Carl Sinclair assisted by other agricultural agency heads.

The two phases of the Soil Bank program were explained by Glenn Lacy, office manager of the county ASC office. The Acreage Reserve phase permits farmers to take allotted cropland acreage out of production and receive payments from the government at a reduced rate for taking the land out of production. The Conservation Reserve, he explained, enables farmers to place unproductive land in the program at a nominal annual rental paid by the government, and aids farmers with a cost-share plan in establishing stock ponds, pastures, cover crops and tree planting.

Berlyn Brown, Soil Conservation Service technician, explained the woodland management plan of SCS designed to aid farmers in establishing good woodlands on non-crop land so as to assist in erosion and flood control. He illustrated his talk with a series of woodland management pictures taken on Morgan county farms.

"THEY'RE CATCHING ON, BUT THEY CAN'T CATCH UP." That's how lots of people feel about the "new 1958" cars that are trying to match the Dodge Swept-Wing look. These other cars have been lowered some, but still seem high and boxy by comparison. A few are "catching on" to fins, but they're years from "catching up." And the air suspension offered by some cars (at well over $100 extra) can't compare with the sway-free, dip-free ride of Dodge Torsion-Aire (standard equipment on all models). So on your way home from someone else's new car showing, stop in and compare it with Swept-Wing 58 by Dodge. You'll see what we mean.

SUBMARGINAL FARMS MAY BE HELPED
(Lexington Herald)

The second year in which the College of Agriculture has sponsored the growing of Turkish, or "aromatic" tobacco was concluded this week with the sale of some 3,000 pounds of the leaf at an average of about $72 a hundred pounds, or about 10 cents more a pound than burley brought last year. While the total crop sold at West Liberty amounted to very little compared to the amount burley tobacco brings its many growers, it may be pointing the way for future development which could aid in the economy of many Kentucky counties where growing of burley tobacco is not economically justified. (See Editor's Note below.)

The price obtained for the leaf should make it attractive to growers in mountain areas, even though its cultivation entails a great deal more work than does the growing of burley. It is hardly likely that any growers will go in for large acreages, as is done in the burley belt, but more farmers can cultivate a small "patch" of the Turkish variety along with their other work. The labor problem is not so great on the small farms where the owners usually do almost everything that has to be done. Top grades of the Turkish leaf brought $1.25 a pound, or nearly twice what top burley brought last year and three times what it brought just a few years ago.

The growing of Turkish tobacco still is in the experimental stage, according to Ira Massie, specialist of the Kentucky Extension Service, who is instructing the farmers in the growing of this product. Practices in growing Turkish tobacco vary greatly from those in the burley industry. The best tobacco is grown in lands of low fertility, and fertilization is kept at a minimum. Mr. Massie points out that cultivation requires about three times the man-hours an acre devoted to burley growing. The top quality leaves are those at the top of the plant and the lower grades are at the bottom, which is just the reverse of the burley practice. Leaves must be stripped by hand from the growing plants as they mature, which accounts for the high man-hours required over the stalk-cutting, stalk-curing method of burley culture.

Kentucky has an "ample" supply of submarginal land, and the growth of this experiment will be watched with interest. It might be just what is needed to bring in a cash crop to many small farms in the upland regions of our state.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Editor Herndon J. Evans' editorial above is timely and his purpose is good. However, the phrase (Turkish tobacco) "could aid in the economy of many Kentucky counties WHERE GROWING BURLEY IS NOT ECONOMICALLY JUSTIFIED," amazes us. Burley tobacco is economically justified anywhere a farmer has a base. Particularly is this so in the mountain counties that grow burley, such as El-Elliott, Morgan, Wolfe and Owsley.

TWO DEMOCRATS

KOREA
(By Rattie Mann)

Nov. 9—Lotsa people stripping. Say afful lot of green in it.

Well, Mrs. Rattie got afful shock that her brother Dennis Back dead. Died in Springfield, Ohio. Mrs. Rattie new Arther Back & his wife came 6 Nov. He parted this life Nov. 5. Baried at old home place Nov. 7. Large crowd were there. He left his dear wife & 12 children to mourn his loss. Had undertaker from Salyersville & his wife, Mr. & Mrs. Praytor to take charge of funeral. Those preached Rev. Wannie Bailey, Rev. J. T. Mann, & Rev. Wardie Craft. I want to thank my God for blessing family with prity day. All of relation. Left 2 girls, Mrs. Rattie Mann, Mrs. Martha Back, Seitz, one brother, Willie Back, bro. Zen. I get obituary later to put in paper.

To all of good Licking Valley Couriers readers. This be very short report as menny of you all have met this kind of shock. They were 10 of us. Only 3, 2 girls 1 boy left to mourn his loss. Bless all my good readers.

Lancaster in Garrard county, like many southern towns, is built around a public square with a small park in the center. Settled in 1798 by pioneers from Lancaster, Pa., the town was designed and named for their native city.

Actually, Morgan, Elliott and Owsley grow the finest burley produced in Kentucky—finer than any in the Bluegrass—and a comparison by grades in recent years will show this to be true. Mountain counties in the "outer limestone belt, like Morgan, Elliott and Owsley, not only produce finer quality burley than in the Bluegrass, but here in the mountains where bases are small and are generally tended by the owners themselves, the farmers produce more per acre. This is because farmers with small bases "baby" their burley crops, so to speak, priming and saving all the leaves and taking excellent care of their crop from sowing of plant beds until the crop is marketed. That's why Morgan, Elliott and Owsley burley commands top prices on markets. Also, that's why farmers in these mountain counties get large yields per acre.

What amazes us is the ASC sending their state agents into mountain counties preaching that a farmer with a 6 base should sell his base to another farmer and thus enable the second farmer to have "enough base to make an adequate living. Some of the U.S. Department of Agriculture representatives from the C and I division in Atlanta have preached that in Morgan county for two or three years. Yet, they fail to say what the mountain farmer who sells his 6-acre base should do to make a living.

A 6 or 7 acre base in the mountains helps the mountain farmer rear his family in the early American democratic manner of farm living. Does the Department of Agriculture want farmers with small bases to give them up?

Turkish tobacco can "take up the slack" in economically-distressed counties, just as Editor Evans has suggested. The sale in West Liberty last week convinced us Turkish tobacco is a better crop for this area than say strawberries. And more farmers should produce it, particularly in mountain counties. It would greatly assist in raising the economic level of mountain counties. It would boost our per-family income.

A half acre of burley, half acre of Turkish, a flock of 25 sheep and an acre of sorghum cane would sell commercially would make the average mountain farmer a fair income, approximately $1,800 cash.

But if the average mountain farmer should lose his burley base, for any reason, or sell it, his income would be materially reduced, probably making it necessary for him to take part time work elsewhere, or possibly move off the farm.

We wonder how widespread is the belief that raising burley is not economically justified in Mountain counties, and just where the idea springs from, and if the Department of Agriculture is fostering this idea, possibly preaching it?

MAN WANTED

WANTED—A man for hard work and rapid promotion; a man who can find things to be done without the help of a manager and three assistants.

A man who gets to work on time in the morning and does not imperil the lives of others in an attempt to be first out of the office at night.

A man who is neat in appearance and does not sulk for an hour's overtime in emergencies.

A man who listens carefully when he is spoken to and asks only enough questions to insure the accurate carrying out of instructions.

A man who moves quickly and makes as little noise as possible about it.

A man who looks you straight in the eye and tells the truth every time.

A man who does not pity himself for having to work.

A man who is cheerful, courteous to everyone and determined to "Make Good."

This man is wanted everywhere. Age or lack of experience do not count. There isn't any limit, except his own ambition, to the number of jobs he can get. He is wanted in every big business.

FARM BUREAU HEAD AND SENATORS
DEBATE PLIGHT OF THE FARMERS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 13—Two United States senators told Kentucky farmers at the Kentucky Farm Bureau Convention that the biggest problem facing farmers now is getting public understanding and acceptance of farm programs.

Senator George Aiken, Vermont Republican, said farmers "must, above all else, demonstrate to the county that farm programs are indeed programs for the nation and not for farmers alone."

And Senator Albert Gore, Tennessee, Democrat, said that "given understanding, the public will realize that a program generally designed to afford stability to agriculture is in the public interest."

Gore told the convention the public must learn that farmers alone cannot operate under the law of supply and demand. He said other industries have the protection of such Government controls as trucking, railroad and airline franchises and banking charters.

"Under these conditions, how can anyone say that the farmer should be the ragged, rugged individual who should be left to the ravages of the law of supply and demand?" Gore asked.

Cites Lack of Control

He said the main troubles that face farmers are their lack of control over their markets and their inability to control their production readily.

"If we want to force farmers off the land as we have been doing and leave control over farming in the hands of a hundred or so corporate cartels, then maybe the law of supply and demand might work in agriculture," Gore said.

"They would control production. And they would see to it that the price of beef and potatoes wouldn't fall.

"If we are to avoid this kind of land reform in reverse, how then are we to give the farmer some protection from the forces over which he has no control whatever?"

"It seems to me that is a perfectly appropriate role for government."

Favor Price Supports

Gore said he favors legislation that would provide high price supports for the basic crops which can be stored, if farmers will control production, expanded markets for perishable crops, and increased foreign trade in farm products.

Aiken said he does not believe any general farm legislation is needed in the next session of Congress. Instead, he favors legislation to solve a few specific problems.

"While recognizing the necessity for some farm legislation at each session, there is altogether too much tendency to overdo it," Aiken said.

Benefits Whole Nation

"The consequence is we don't give the farmer a chance to find out what is in a program and to adapt himself to it—or maybe even find out how to work around it—before we change the rules on him."

Aiken said the last session of Congress provided nearly $5,000,000 for agricultural appropriations.

"So far as most people know, this appropriation was made primarily for the benefit of the farmer," he said. "But probably half the total appropriation was for the benefit of the farmer and the other half was primarily for the benefit of the nation as a whole."

"The school-lunch program, for instance, is no longer a farm program."

"Approximately $1,000,000,000 was appropriated for watershed protection and the development of our soil and water and forest resources. Although conservation programs necessarily are operated on land, yet the landowner himself may not get more than a small percentage of the benefits from them."

"The very existence of our towns and cities depends upon protection of our soil and water resources."

"Why, then, should we continue to regard these appropriations as benefits to farmers when the major part of the benefits derives to other people?"

Need Nonfarmers' Support

Aiken also warned that farmers no longer can get legislation through Congress to help them unless such legislation is acceptable to nonfarmers. He pointed out that there are some 200 or more members of Congress who come from districts where farming is a minor occupation—and in some does not exist at all.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 11—The president of the American Farm Bureau Federation today labeled farm price supports ineffective, adding that farmers are not using them properly.

Charles Shuman told the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation convention "neither Congress nor the administration has been willing to make the rules tight enough to achieve real adjustment."

Shuman said the original concept of price supports was to encourage orderly marketing and to even out wide fluctuations in prices.

Production adjustment was to be coupled with price supports through application of acreage controls and marketing quotas," he continued. "As a matter of fact, we have never really controlled or reduced over-all production."

Shuman said the time has come when farmers must decide whether they really want production controls to be effective.

"If, as it appears to be true, the great majority do not want controls that have enough teeth to be effective, we must face the question of what we are trying to do and what we can do, by continuing ineffective controls."

Five hundred members are registered for the meeting which runs through Wednesday.

DEMOCRATS WIN
ELLIOTT VOTING

Elliott counties elected a full set of county and district officials in last Tuesday's general election. But for the most part voting was only a formality since all Democrat nominees except for State Representative and a Magistrate won without opposition.

Elliott counties voted against the 2 state constitutional amendments and the county $50,000 bond issue to build a jail and repair the court house.

Vote on constitutional amendment No. 1 was 138 for and 309 against, and on amendment No. 2 it was 119 for and 379 against.

Vote on the county's proposed $50,000 bond issue was 334 for and 379 against.

Elliott counties gave Miss Doris Owens, Democrat, a majority of 906 to 145 over Republican Charles M. Green for Clerk of the Court of Appeals.

John W. Green Re-Elected

State Representative John W. Green, Democrat of Sandy Hook, was re-elected in the Elliott-Lawrence district by a majority of 1,316 over Republican Jack C. Bowling of Lawrence county.

Green carried both counties—Elliott by 756 and Lawrence by 560. Green's vote in Elliott was 955 to Bowling's 199.

Howard Wins For J. P.

FHA CHAPTER INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS

The Morgan County Chapter of Future Homemakers of America held its first meeting of the new year in the study hall at the high school Oct. 23. The installation of officers for the year 57-58 by former president Sylvia Tyree was an impressive part of the program. The officers for the year are as follows:

President—Helen Hilbrook
1st vice president—Sylvia Tyree
2nd vice president—Mary Pauline Johnson
Secretary—Priscilla Ann Rose
Treasurer—Ruth Ann Hill
Historian—Shirley Patrick
Parliamentarian—Anna Marie Johnson
Recreation leader—Mary Virginia Collins
Song Leader—Jean Cline
Reporter—Patty Sue Rose

After the installation of officers new president took charge. Helen Hilbrook and Sylvia Tyree then told about their trip to the State FHA meeting in Murray, Ky., on June 3-8. Following this very interesting report, Mrs. Estelle B. Nickell, FHA advisor, divided the members into three groups to prepare the program of work.

On Oct. 25, thirty-six girls were initiated and officially became members of the Morgan county chapter of FHA. These girls raise the grand total of membership to eighty-nine.

The local chapter has five girls who are working on their State degrees this year. They are Helen Hilbrook, Mary Pauline Johnson, Anna Marie Johnson, Priscilla Ann Rose and Patty Sue Rose.

MOREHEADIANS PAY VISIT

It has long been the custom for West Libertarians to attend ball games and other events taking place at Morehead, but week before last several Morehead residents visited West Liberty.

We mentioned how delighted we were to have so many women from Morehead come to West Liberty to attend Mrs. Doran's organ concert and the Homemakers' style show, to which Mary Alice Jayne (Mrs. LeGrand Jayne), one of Rowan county's most genial personalities, replied: "We're repaying some of the calls that West Liberty people have made to us."

Here are the names of the Morehead women who paid a visit to West Liberty: Mrs. LeGrand Jayne, Mrs. Bob Laughlin, Mrs. Arch Williams, Mrs. M. C. Crossley, Mrs. C. B. Daugherty, Mrs. W. J. Sample, Mrs. Corinne Dugan, Mrs. W. F. Sherrow, Mrs. Claude Clayton, Mrs. W. C. Lane, Mrs. Jim Prince, Mrs. J. C. Wells, Mrs. Curt Hutchinson, Mrs. Ward Williams and Mrs. Freeman Chadwell. Also in the group were Jamie Prince and Oma Dean Wells.

Woman's Club Views Film On Federation

The Morgan County Woman's Club met Tuesday night at Stamper's dining room, with Mrs. Woodrow Stamper as hostess.

A film showing work of the federated women's clubs was shown by Paul Williams.

Mrs. Jam. A. Norsworthy was in charge of devotions.

(During the business meeting the club voted to sponsor one of the Girl Scout groups. Appointed on a Scout committee for the club were Mrs. Georgia Stamper, Mrs. Florence Murray and Mrs. Mae Wells. It was also decided to recognize the best Christmas decorations this year, but not give prizes.

Refreshments of pie and coffee were served to the following: Mrs. Alec Spencer, Mrs. Curren Nickell, Mrs. James Norsworthy, Mrs. Mae Wells, Miss Florence McGuire, Mrs. Earl Kinner, Mrs. H. B. Murray, Mrs. Charles Gullett, Mrs. Arthur Hulleit, Mrs. Woodrow Stamper, Mrs. Carl Sinclair and Mrs. Berlyn Brown.

He was converted at home during a prayer service conducted by the Rev. Hinton and Rev. Buddy Benton Oct. 6, 1957. It was then he had a great desire to be baptized and hoped it would be possible later. He stated to them and his family his regret that he had not accepted Christ as his Savior in earlier life. He called his aged father to his bedside and urgently begged him to yield himself to the Spirit of the Lord. Many times he has admonished his children with kindness and love to live for the Lord.

He spent one month at home during his illness attended by the home physicians, then was rushed to the Central Baptist Hospital for care on June 4. He stayed there for eight weeks and seemed improved and was brought back home Aug. 29. He remained at home until he began to grow worse. Then he was taken to the St. Anthony Hospital in Louisville, where he stayed 10 days. Upon his request, the family brought him home where he remained until the end.

Ervin was well known and loved by all that knew him because he was so accommodating to anyone that needed his help. He served his neighbors with an untiring energy that created a bond of love between them. All through the excruciating pain prying on his body, he remained calm and patient almost surpassing the understanding of his friends.

Surviving him are: his loving wife who attended him so devotedly during his illness; his son Lloyd and daughter Mrs. Deloris Gevedon; one grandchild, Michael Lee Gevedon, Buskirk; his aged father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Conley, Greer; two sisters, Mrs. Oakley Johnson, Stacy Fork, and Mrs. H. Gevedon of Panama; one son-in-law, Vernon Gevedon of Buskirk, and many friends and relatives who will sadly miss his vacant place in the community.

Funeral service was held at the Salem church Oct. 31 with Rev. Hinton and Rev. Glen Lawson officiating. Prayer was by Rev. Russell Brown. Singing and special songs by the Salem church and Mr. and Mrs. John Cundiff.

The body was laid to rest in the Salem cemetery with Potter Funeral Home in charge. The large assemblage and profuse floral offering showed how highly he was esteemed by all.

VANCE
D. A. (Dave) Vance of Cedar Bluff, Va., born Nov. 4, 1870, departed this life Oct. 7, 1957 at the age of 86 years, 11 months and 3 days. Your reporter received the sad news of her nephew, Rev. Clifford Hutchinson being in a serious accident. His car was struck by a train, he was seriously injured and is not expected to live if the Lord doesn't take over. The accident occurred Thursday evening. I am trusting the Lord will touch his mangled body and heal him. He was one that spread the Gospel to a dying world. He was a great worker in the field the Lord placed him in. So all Christian people that know the worth of prayer are asked to pray for his recovery that he may soon be able to go out and beg sinners to repent. It was sad to not hear his voice Sunday over the radio, as he always preached at Morehead on Sunday and I hardly missed his sermons. His voice will be missed by many listeners.

The 58 FORD is here now...

With all that's new for a world of difference

There's bold, new styling—new Interceptor V-8 Power—new Cruise-O-Matic Drive—new Ford-Aire Suspension! The 58 Ford is the only car ever to meet a world-wide test and win world-wide approval before its public premiere!

You could search the world over and never find a car to match this 58 Ford's new beauty... new power... new ride... all at the low Ford price. We know! We tried it!

In Paris... the most style-conscious fashion critics in the world had a deep, low bow for Ford's latest style creation. In the mighty Himalayas, Ford's new Interceptor V-8 engine with Precision Fuel Induction won the day!

Then there's nothing newer than the true air ride of Ford-Aire Suspension. It's like riding on a cloud! But, you don't have to go to foreign soil to drive this newest Ford. We'll gladly save you the trip. Come in today!

From London to Bangkok... the whole world loved it!

The 58 Ford stopped traffic in Trafalgar Square when it passed through on its round-the-world trip. And that was typical of the excitement this Ford caused in Paris... Rome... Athens... Istanbul... Calcutta... and Bangkok. For this Ford was proved around the world in the toughest "shakedown" cruise in history.

"THERE'S NOTHING NEWER IN THE WORLD OF STYLE!"

"THE WHOLE WORLD SEEMS SMALLER WITH FORD'S NEW INTERCEPTOR V-8 ENGINE!"

Smooth as they come... smart as they go. The Fairlane 500 takes the 58
styling cake, going away
(arriving, too!)

COME IN... SEE THE CAR THAT WAS PROVED AND APPROVED AROUND THE WORLD!

Bake Sale By West Liberty Garden Club

Synonymous with Thanksgiving is hospitality, and no matter where we are, whether on the high seas or on foreign shores Americans gather together to give thanks and to celebrate Thanksgiving.

The calendar proclaims it is only fourteen days until Thanksgiving. Right now you are thrown into a frenzy of excitement, happy in the expectation of a gathering of children, grandchildren, aunts, uncles and first and second cousins, all eager to be home and all eager to celebrate once more the cherished custom of gathering around the festive board to give thanks to the good Lord for the blessings he has showered upon us.

The West Liberty Garden Club members knowing how busy you will be with the preparation of your Thanksgiving menu are going to have a bake sale Tuesday 26th to help you out all they can in preparing of your family dinner.

They will have for sale pies and pastries, relishes and rolls, cakes and candies at the City Restaurant.

Don't forget to be uptown Tuesday 26th bright and early at 10 o'clock and take your choice of all the good things there will be on display.

And just for good measure if you should be on the look out for a Xmas gift for some Kentucky redbird enthusiast, there will be on sale a few bird feeders.

Dale Porter Is Selected State 4-H Corn Champ

Member New Salem Club Gets 186.7 Bu. On One Acre To Win

(Elliott County News)

The State 4-H Department has officially notified County Agent E. D. Rice that Dale Porter of the Ault community and a 4-H member of New Salem Club has been selected as State 4-H Corn Champion for 1956. Young Porter has been a 4-H member for seven years and has carried the corn and baby beef project. In his seven years he has produced 980 bushels of corn and has made a net profit of $778.50.

He grew his champion one acre yield on very rich creek bottom which had been grown to tobacco two previous years, with each crop followed by a good cover crop of vetch and rye. This plot had been tiled drained in 1952 and limed at the rate of three tons per acre in the fall of 1955.

Before turning his plot in May ten tons of barnyard litter was applied to a good cover crop. After turning to the depth of 10 inches, 1,000 pounds of 10-10-10 fertilizer was applied and disked well into the soil. This plot was disked at intervals until planted on May 20th with 103 Hybrid seed. The corn was planted in rows 28 inches apart and double drilled in the row to insure a good stand. When the plants were about six inches high they received their first cultivation and were thinned to approximately 10 inches in the row, leaving a population of 19,445 stalks on his one acre plot. When the plants were approximately 16 inches high they received the second cultivation and were sidedressed with 100 pounds of ammonia nitrate.

The acre was kept clear from all weeds and grass and with sufficient moisture he produced 186.7 bushels from his one acre plot, which gave him the State Championship.

Young Porter also won first place in the Kentucky Corn Derby and was honored at the University of Kentucky where he was awarded a $50 watch by the Kentucky Seed Improvement Association, plus $250 by Broad-Bent Seed Company.

Due to this great achievement and being State 4-H Corn Champion, young Porter will be given a scholarship to attend the 4-H Congress with other State Project Champions in November. His 4-H club leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Carter, are due much credit for this achievement of young Porter.

ODE TO A SATELLITE

When I look high,
Up in the sky,
I sit here and wonder,
What all is up yonder.
Besides all the stars
And planets like Mars.
Then the answer comes real quick,
Why there is dear old Sputnik.
So twinkle, twinkle lil satellite,
Revolve, revolve with all your might.
'Cause outdared you soon shall be,
Then you'll not look so great to me.
I'll laugh best 'cause I'll laugh last,
As soon's you run out of gas.
Oh, when we get our own moon,
And that's gonna be real soon.
With it and the long-range missile,
We will make old Sputnik fizzle.
In this new atomic age,
Satellites are the rage,
So we'll be on top very soon,
With our new earth-circling moon.

Famed Pioneer Died In Poverty Near Louisville

FRANKFORT, Ky.—In the long panorama of history some figures attain prominence at an early age only to become overwhelmed by troubles and break under the strain of adversity as they grow older. George Rogers Clark, one of the important names in Kentucky and the nation's history, was one of these men.

Clark at the age of 35, in 1787, had occupied the principal fort of southern Illinois; had captured the British commander and the fort of Vincennes; had punished the Ohio Indians for their victory at Blue Licks and had established a base at Fort Nelson, now Louisville, from which he threatened the enemy as far north as Detroit. He was a brigadier-general with such captains as Boone, Kenton and Logan under his command and he even obtained a faithful financier who advanced funds to promote his campaigns.

Despite his fame, ominous clouds were to gather on the horizon for Clark. He could not escape the political schemes and intrigues which engulfed him. James Wilkinson defamed Clark as a military leader after which neither Virginia nor the United States would trust him fully. Seven years later, Clark was appointed leader of French forces in a planned march against New Orleans. When the action was denounced, Clark fled for his safety.

Years later, forgotten and in poverty, Clark wrote: "I have against the United States half the territory they possess and they suffer me to remain in poverty." By a law of 1812, Virginia granted General Clark a sword and a pension of $400 a year but the land promised Clark was dedicated to the federal government. In 1818, a second stroke of paralysis proved fatal to Clark in his home near Louisville. A small stone marks his grave in Louisville's Cave Hill Cemetery.

Clark's heirs pressed claims against Virginia and received $22,000 in settlement. In 1928, the United States Congress appropriated a large sum for a monument to Clark at Vincennes. Congress also appropriated funds for a memorial which stands at the entrance to Old Fort Harrod, Harrodsburg, with which Clark was closely associated.

Old Beech Tree That Served as Church on Vance Fork Is Gone, Whitt Finds As He Visits Scenes of Childhood

Church Began At 10 and Lasted To One In Afternoon

(By Bernard E. Whitt)

(Written a few weeks ago)

In all my hunting trips this year, going up branches and over hills in all parts of the county, I have observed that none of the hill land is being cultivated. There are some sections where a few hills have been bulldozed and sowed in grass. I saw one branch on Grassy Creek there were about fifty acres that had been bulldozed and is now in fine grass. However, most of the land is growing up in forests.

Wednesday, I drove my car to the Vance Fork school (where I left it), and with an old hat and gun, I started up the creek to where I was raised and lived. Just above the school, at the John Prater place, and where Gus Vance lived, I climbed over the fence. The dog began to chase me, and Luther Carpenter came out and said he thought I was Robison Crusoe and laughed heartily. I asked him who lived in all the houses. He said, only one—just above him was Bruce Prater. On the right hand fork all the houses were gone.

He continued that if I got lost to shoot three times and he would hunt me.

I walked up past the Crit Prater house and saw two children playing in the yard at Bruce Prater's. They looked at me—and went in the house. I saw a good cow and a good mule in his lot at the barn and some tobacco hanging in the barn. I walked down the bank to the place where I hid myself the first day I went to school, a lad of six.

Custer Jones was teacher. I was scared that first day at school and ran part of the way back home. I don't remember much more about the school. I know that Myrtle Whitaker Caudill, Lula Allen, Mack Robinet, Hendrix Lykins, Joe F. Reed, Edgar Cochran, Jane Vance and Jim Stinson were some of my teachers. I think it took me twelve years to get out of the fifth grade.

Hendrix Lykins became a banker in Indiana. Edgar Cochran lives in Ohio. Custer Jones became a banker and leading business man. Lula Allen lives at White Oak. Jane Vance lives in the district. Jim Stinson lived at Ashland. Joe Reed became a leading business man and lives at Del Ray Beach, Florida.

I taught my first school here at the Vance Fork school—I had seventy-five pupils. Now there are only about a dozen.

Others who were raised in the district and taught the school were: Harlan Allan, now a lawyer in Charleston, Josie Brown and Ganes Whitt. Most of those who moved away have made good. Clark Vance lives in Bath county. His son is chairman of the ASC committee. Ollie Vance is a retired Army accountant at Ashland. Loy Allen is a newsman with the Herald Express of Los Angeles, California, one of the nation's biggest newspapers.

There was no trace of the Kenus Gullett house. It is gone. Bob Gullett who lived with his grandfather now lives at Matthew and is a good farmer. The Bill Griffith house and all buildings are gone—no trace even of the site. He was buried on the hill in front of the house, almost 60 years ago. There is no trace of the grave where he was buried. Large trees now cover the hill. The log house my father built stands but all the other buildings are gone—no trace or indication they existed. The log house where I was born is a two story log structure covered with boards. It had been papered with cat-logs and newspapers more than fifty years ago before wallpaper came around. I tore off some of the old paper and brought it home with me. The heading of one of the papers is "The American Weekly" and states, "The greatest circulation in the world." It has some receipts that George Washington used at Mt. Vernon. Part of the story is that King Louis XVI of France was a great booster of ordinary spuds and wore a potato blossom in his button hole and ordered white potatoes served on the royal table. There is a page from Ward's catalog and children boots are listed at 98c. There is an ad about coffee: "Where there's life, there's coffee." It also states that "if two hours elapse between the time you drink coffee and go to bed it interferes no way with sleep." There is a story that Edward Clapp, 75 years old scared himself to death "after he decided to take his own life."

The old school building where we went to school, I remember, had a log against one side to keep it from falling apart. I remember the old benches and the log braced against one side of the house to keep it from falling apart. Custer Jones must have been a good teacher. He lived on Jones Creek. Later his sister, now Mrs. Bertha Leslie of Lexington, taught the same school once.

The Old Beech Tree Where We Went To Church
On my way back to my car I was tired and sat down to rest on the spot where the old beech tree stood. It is gone. Most of the bark and wood of the tree is washed away. A thick of bushes now cover the spot. Some of the trees are a foot or more in diameter. They have grown where once rails and logs were placed for seals.

I remember some of the preachers, Davy Allen, Allison Hammonds, Leburn Lykins, later sheriff of Morgan, Dock Oney and Jim Mett Oney, were regular preachers. I don't know what church it was. It must have been Baptist because I know one of the songs they always sang was: "Washed in the Blood of Calvary's Lamb," and they applied down at Green Salyers' farm now owned by Luther Carpenter. I believe there was as much religion there and that they were as close to heaven under that old beech as will be found in the fine churches and great cathedrals of today.

I know when the meeting began to close Martha Easterling would begin to shout and others would follow. Then they would shake hands with the minister and with each other, and the preacher would go home with some of them for dinner and get his horse fed and sit around and talk during the afternoon.

It was pretty hard on the children to have to wait for a good dinner until the old people all ate. Church was usually held on Saturday night and lamps were brought by some of the people or their lanterns hung on the walls. I believe that Jim Matt Oney could preach louder than any of them. I liked to listen at Leburn Lykins, later sheriff. He seemed so much in earnest. I remember one time a colored preacher came and preached for about a week and had a big crowd. I don't remember his name or where he came from or why he came. There were no Sunday schools. Church began about ten and lasted to at least 1 p.m. I believe that the people were in earnest and believed in the Bible and that is what is important.

Parties and Dancing
Parties for the young people back in those days were held at different homes. Usually it was an apple cutting or a bean hulling—then the young people would play games like post office, laugh and go foot, etc. The boys walked home with the girls. I don't know what we talked about, but it was a lot of fun and I believe they enjoyed it as much or more than the young people do the shows and teenage parties of today.

The closing day of the school was one of the biggest days of the year. Speeches and dialogues and songs entertained the people, and a march about the close led by a drum and fife. Si Stacy who lived on Stacy Fork was the best fifer. The schools all around would get him to come and lead the march with his fife. It must have been a Civil War fife. I would like to know what became of it if anyone now can play the fife. Henry Stacy, his grandson, lives at West Liberty and said he would give almost anything for this fife. If anyone has it, he would like to know. The hunters will tell you that there are not many squirrels yet there is plenty of feed and forest for them. Millions squirrels could live in it. Why doesn't the Wildlife Department restock our forest with squirrels and other game? They have done a fairly good job with fish. Why not establish a place to raise squirrels and put them back. They would afford much sport for hunters and are good food. Squirrels can be tamed and handled very easily. I wonder what Harold Barber thinks about this?

While watching for a squirrel, I heard the hoot of a large owl. Not many people have heard these and especially in daytime. It may be I disturbed his slumber. A few moments later I heard the shrill scream of a large chicken hawk and it flew out of some large trees not far away. Very soon it circled back and screamed more but never came very close. I remember when we lived there that hawks would catch an old hen and fly away with her.

Several times I have seen foxes. While slipping up the Jim Henry Branch I sat down and heard something above me on the hill. Soon a fox looked over the bank. It must have heard me. I think it must have been hunting for rabbits. In Rhett Brown's woods I saw an old one and three young ones about half grown. They came along the top of a cliff and lined up looking over. I never moved. They would have made a fine picture if I had brought a camera.

There appears to be more opossums than any other wild animals now. They are the only pouched animal in America and are perhaps the oldest form of wildlife in existence in this area. At one time hunters with dogs would go at night about the first of November and later, and run them up a tree, shake them out, take them home, sometimes eat a fat one and save the hide. They sold the hides for 15 and 20 cents. I wonder why there is not a market for them now? Men would travel around on horses buying opossum furs, skunks and minks. We made several dollars that way when I was a boy, and had a lot of fun hunting.

At one place on Henry Day's farm on Elkfork I saw three brown bears. (Luther Adkins said he had seen them. Jeff Williams, policeman at West Liberty, said he had seen them on several occasions.) Late one evening I saw one in Ollie Days Branch above West Liberty near an abandoned coal mine.

In all my wandering through the hills I notice that there are many second growth poplars. Tall and straight, and they grow rapidly. I saw one just above where the old barn stood at my boyhood home. It must have grown there in the last 40 years. It is about 3 feet in diameter and 50 feet tall. It will make a lot of lumber. I wonder why the reforestation program doesn't try to reforest with this kind of poplars? They are native here, and grow fast, and make good lumber.

Ed Holbrook has a lot of fine timber on this land and it has grown immensely since I was a boy. We cut our timber and Jim Reed saved it (about 1905 or 6) and we hauled the lumber and ties to Cannel City and sold the ties for 15 cents each. It took four mules to pull a load of 15 ties, and a day to make the trip. The $2.25 was a good sum of money then, and it was about the only way to get any cash at all. It may be that nature is restoring the soil by growing trees and blotting out all that man has done. All the fields were fenced when I was a lad. Today there is not a sign of a fence to be seen in this area. Even the paths are grown up in trees.

Children Had To Wait Until After Elders Had Eaten

This district is perhaps typical of many others in the county. In my wanderings up the hollows and branches I find the same condition. Old houses abandoned or rotting down. Fields grown up in bushes. No roads, no people.

Mordicae is an example, 2000 acres where no one now lives. I hunted on Foster Ferguson's land, beautiful hillsides of trees. From the top of his hills I could see hundreds of acres on Grassy creek, on Long Branch—some in grass. Where Lenox once stood with scores of houses now only

Licking River

At one time there were dozens of houses here and a saw mill cut most of the timber about 1910. Now there are five or six houses. I hunted all around the hills here. Jimmy Evans lives about a mile from the river. In the branch above his house I believe is some of the finest timber I ever saw. It must have been missed for it looks like the primeval forest. One feels insignificant standing among the tall trees looking for squirrels.

Of hundreds of houses only two remain. James Perry owns a lot of the land in that area and I hunted up some of the branches and up the Straight Creek side. There is some fine timber where once Lenox Saw Mill Co., logged and most of it was shipped away by freight.

I wonder if the people who left these hills and vales and their children are more happy and contented now than they were fifty years ago. I know that with fine high-speeding cars people can travel far away in a few hours. They can hear and see all that is taking place in the world on the TV sets.

I imagine there are many more people who have left Morgan county than live in it now. Our newspaper must have more than five hundred subscribers who live in Ohio and have gone there from this county.

There is an interesting story and something to think about in the migration of people, and the homes and schools that have been abandoned. Will there be a return? What does it all mean?

Jerald Griffin of the Courier-Journal and a leading feature writer, plans to spend Thursday with me and visit several of these communities and get pictures of the old schools and abandoned places and write a story.

Whatever he writes we hope you will have a chance to read in the Licking Valley Courier.

GI IN FIELD EXERCISE

BERLIN (AHTNC) Nov. 1—Army Sgt. Raymond P. Lemaster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Lemaster, West Liberty, recently participated in a six-week field training exercise with the 6th Infantry Regiment in Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis of West Liberty were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Lewis.

PRAYER

"More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of."

These are great days in which we live. It is time for every person who believes in God to exercise His privilege and power of prayer. God expects us to do what we are able to do. It is in Man's extremity that we see God's opportunity.

Good statesmen need to be upheld by prayer. Government officials need our prayers. World leaders need our prayers. The untold suffering millions in other lands need our prayers. No one is too old to pray. Let the power and love of God be felt in this weary old world by the power of prayer.

—Recopied from The Christian Science Sentinel, and faithfully submitted by Eliza E. Wells.

Men just don't know about some things—For instance, hanging up the wash. Your husband may think it's easy. But let him try it a few times, and he'll soon start thinking about buying an electric clothes dryer.

You may need to explain to him how an electric clothes dryer is the answer to your wash-day burden. Tell him it eliminates backaches from carrying basketloads of heavy wet clothes and bending and stretching to hang each piece one at a time.

Explain to him that you can toss a washer load of clothes into an electric clothes dryer, and they'll come out fluffy dry and fresh. Many of the pieces will be so wrinkle-free they'll require no ironing.

When your husband considers all these advantages, we'll bet that you'll be the proud owner of an electric clothes dryer soon...and your whole family will be Living Better Electrically.

The Silenced Voice

By Arthur C. Johnson

1850, a son of John Johnson. Pictured above are the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Johnson, seated, and their two youngest children, Dock and Ida. Dock is living in Middletown, Ohio, and Ida lives in Magoffin County, Kentucky. Little is now known about the early life of Jacob. He was born in Lawrence County, Ky., about

Judging from traditional reports, many people believed that a celestial mystery surrounded the life of Jacob Johnson. He testified of a vision something like that of the Apostle Paul, seeing a heavenly light shine around him as he rode along a lonely road. He felt that this was his call to the ministry. On the next Sunday he entered the stand and astonished all present with his wonderful message. An appointment was made for him for the following Sunday, and he spent the week preparing a sermon. When he entered the stand to deliver his prepared sermon, he was unable to utter a word. The rest of his life he would never prepare another sermon.

Another traditional story relates that "Uncle Jake" (as he became to be called) entered a church of another denomination at Red Bush, Ky. Many of the congregation knew him and requested that he be invited to preach. The moderator very reluctantly agreed to allow him fifteen or twenty minutes. The audience testified that as soon as "Uncle Jake" was on the floor, the large clock on the wall—the only timepiece in the house—stopped running and stood still till "Uncle Jake" took his seat. It then resumed ticking and ran on without being started.

Another story relates that Uncle Jake was employed to teach a school on Coon Creek in Magoffin County. To be near his school, he moved into a cabin nearby. Because of a dream, he was convinced that his family would all be killed if he did not move away. Though severely criticized by his wife and neighbors, he moved back home. That night a cyclone blew many big trees on the cabin and crushed it to the ground.

I still recall hearing my grandmother tell about Jacob borrowing law books to study and become a lawyer. While she was holding a kerosene lamp for him to read by, the lamp chimney arose and settled on the floor without breaking. Jacob became afraid, left off the study of law, and gave more time to preaching. These and many other events are still told about Uncle Jake.

He had a wide influence on the religious thinking in Morgan county. The bread of life he scattered on spiritual water is still being gathered up. Though he departed this life Sept. 17, 1915, his silenced voice still lives.

AUTUMN

(This poem was composed by the pupils in Dorothy Wheeler's sixth grade, M.C.H.S.)
Leaves of gold, red and brown
Crunch and crackle on the ground;
As we walk and skip and play,
Thru bright, sunny autumn days.
Fields are brown and hills are bright,
Birds are in their winter flight;
Cool, crisp, frosty nights,
Make the nuts and pumpkins ripe.

This is the time of harvest,
When nature's at its best;
Fruits in the cellar, molasses in the jug,
Everything's ready for winter's cold hug.

The last flowers of summer are fading away,
Since a colder season is on its way;
The squirrels are busily gathering nuts,
Hiding them away in their woodland huts.

Halloween is on its way,
With ghosts and goblins at mysterious play;
Witches on brooms, with tall black hats,
Sail thru the sky with coal black cats!

Farm Facts

GRAIN SORGHUM. Last summer we grew our first crop of grain sorghum on our farm in Todd county, and, from many standpoints, it was very successful. We found the crop easy and cheap to grow. Seed costs are low—less than a dollar an acre—and the yield in our case was better than corn. It averaged over 100 bushels to the acre. Grain sorghum withstands a lot of dry weather and the feed value is about equal to corn. It is undoubtedly a good crop to have for drought insurance.

On the other hand it has characteristics which will prevent it from becoming an important crop on many Kentucky farms and prospective growers should recognize its disadvantages as well as its advantages. One of its greatest handicaps seem to be the difficulty in harvesting and storing during wet seasons, such as we sometimes have in Kentucky. Unlike corn that can be harvested and stored under a wide variety of conditions, sorghum, with few exceptions, has to be harvested with power equipment and stored in tight bins with forced ventilation or heat. It is, to say the least, difficult to harvest and store in wet weather. Furthermore, the plants are susceptible to aphids and the corn ear worms often do much damage to the grain, sometimes cutting the yield in half.

All in all, grain sorghum seems suitable as a supplement for corn on large farms where combines and metal storage bins are available. And even then it should be used as a supplement for only a part of the corn crop and not as a substitute for all of it.

GREENER PASTURES. I remember a few years ago how brown and barren the fields over most of Kentucky looked from early October, when lespedeza matured, until late spring when red-top, clover and other plants started their growth. It was only in the bluegrass country that people really knew the full meaning of "winter pastures." Now, one is impressed as he travels over the state how green Kentucky fields are during the fall, winter and early spring.

Kentucky 31 fescue has brought about a miraculous change in the looks of things, but best of all, it reduces erosion, improves the tilth of the soil and furnishes an enormous amount of grazing most of the year. Farmers who have learned to grow it in combination with clovers and lespedeza find it one of the most dependable pasture crops in the state. Fescue has a wide adaptability as to soil type and the seed is relatively cheap which adds to its many other advantages.

Survivors of Young Farmer Aided If He Dies At Early Age

Most farmers now know that social security pays monthly benefits when they stop working—or just taper-off in work after they reach retirement age. But many farmers still need to know that social security pays monthly benefits to young farm families in case the father dies at any age.

Mrs. Clarine Palmer of Lexington, Illinois, wants every young farm wife to know that social security is doing for her three children—Carroll, Shirley and baby Roger. Roger was entitled to social security payments from the month of his birth, since he was born after his father's untimely death. Little Roger's payments will continue month-after-month for 18 years. All three children will get payments until they reach 18. Mrs. Palmer may also be entitled to benefits as long as she has Roger in her care.

Mrs. Palmer hopes that her case will make more young farmers aware of the protection social security insurance now provides for families on American farms.

Further information concerning social security benefits may be obtained from the Social Security Administration, District Office, located at 411 19th Street, Ashland, Kentucky. The office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday thru Friday (except national holidays). Also information may be obtained from Mr. Adrian Hatfield, Field Representative of the Ashland office, when he comes to the Court House each Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. (CST) in West Liberty. There is no charge for this service.

Kentuckian's Income Outgains That Of Nation

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 11—The average Kentuckian made greater financial gains between 1950 and 1956 than did the population of the nation as a whole and the 12-state Southeastern region.

The State Department of Economic Development has disclosed that a study of federal government data showed a rise of 38.2 percent in Kentucky's per capita income from $956 to $1,324, between 1950 and 1956. Only four states in the nation and only one state in the Southeast registered larger increase. The average gains for the nation and the region were 30.1 and 35.6 percent.

Kentucky's per capita income in 1956 represented 68.2 percent of the national average of $1,940, as against 64.3 percent in 1950. The average for the 12 Southeastern states was 70.3 percent last year and 67.7 percent in 1950.

Total personal income in Kentucky last year amounted to $3,995 million, a six-year gain of 40.9 percent, the development agency said. Higher national and regional advances of 43.8 and 45.9 percent were attributed to Kentucky's slower rate of population gain.

Farm Housing Loans Are Now Available

The construction and repair of farm houses and other farm buildings may be financed by Farmers Home Administration loans, R. Gay Blair, the agency's local county supervisor, said this week.

He said the same kind of farm housing loan program is available as last year when American farm owners borrowed $24,300,000 to construct, improve, or repair farm houses and other essential farm buildings, or to provide water for farmstead or household use.

Farmers Home Administration loans are provided only when a bank or other lender cannot adequately serve the farm owner's credit needs, at the present time. The agency does not compete with conventional or cooperative lenders, Mr. Blair said, but does supplement the credit services supplied by other sources. Borrowers agree to repay the housing loans within the shortest time consistent with their repayment abilities, but no loan schedule can go beyond 33 years. The interest rate is 4 percent.

Although housing loans go only to farm owners, an owner may borrow to repair or build a house or other farm building for his tenant or farm laborers. A borrower must be an American citizen. Any farm involved must be big enough and operated in such a way as to be considered an actual farm, and it must produce a substantial part of the operator's annual cash income. Farmers cannot use farm housing loans to buy land or refinance debts.

Mr. Blair cautioned loan applicants against starting construction work or incurring debts for work or materials before their loans are closed, if they expect to obtain their financing through the Farmers Home Administration.

Farmers buy their building materials wherever they please, usually from local dealers. They obtain the building plans from any reliable source they choose. The Farmers Home Administration has a limited number of plans that applicants may use if they want to.

During construction the agency makes periodic inspections to make certain that sound construction standards are followed.
